Wilson's American for Three Generations

Woodrow Wilson can claim through the two generations that preceded him, a century of tenantry in this country. His grandfather, James R. Wilson, settled in the United States in 1807. He came from County Down in Ireland, but was descended from Scotch stock. James Wilson made his home in Philadelphia, and brought up his family in the faith of Calvin and Knox. One of his sons, Joseph Huggins Wilson, father of the president-elect, preached for many years in the Augusta Presbyterian church. Joseph Wilson hoped that his son, Thomas Woodrow, would become a minister, and was disappointed when he learned that the young man leaned more to pedagogy than theology problems. The photographs show the first generation of the family in this country.

Aggies Would Increase State's Egg Production

Legislature will be Asked to Appropri-
Sufficient Funds for Fifty
Acre Poultry Breeding Farm

CORVALLIS, Jan. 22.—In order to be able to furnish the farmers of Oregon with more eggs for hatching and cockerels for breeding from heavy laying strains, and thus make the state an exporter rather than an importer of poultry produce, the Oregon Experiment Station will ask the present legislature for an appropriation for the purchase of some fifty acres for a breeding farm.

Since the establishment of the poultry department of the station at the Oregon Agricultural College five years ago, the value of poultry and eggs produced has increased between three and four million dollars, and this is bound to increase further with the activity of the station experts.

This has naturally added much to the wealth of the state.

"Production is increasing rapidly, but where will the producer come in if, with increased production he sees his profits diminish?" asks Professor James Dryden, poultry husbandman of the station. "We are rapidly reaching a point where the efficiency or egg laying capacity of the hen must be increased if poultry keeping is to be profitable."

"With more productive fowls the farmer will make more profit, even though the consumer pays more for the eggs. By proper selection of breeding stock as much may be accomplished in five years as in a hundred under the old method of breeding, or lack of breeding."

Finley Plans Changes in Open Season Dates

State Game Warden Proposes Blanket Measure Empowering Commission to Protect Farmers

PORTLAND, Jan. 22.—Game Warden Finley has a plan for game protection that he hopes will solve the matter of damage done by certain classes of protected birds or animals.

He proposes a blanket measure, giving the fish and game commission absolute power to declare an open season on protected birds or animals at any time and in any locality, when it is found that such birds or animals are doing damage.

Legislation providing for protection to farmers from beavers, pheasants and other game is generally demanded, and Warden Finley hopes to see his plan adopted as a means of protecting the game generally, and still preventing the destruction of property in a few sections.

AT ONCE! CLOGGED. NOSTRILS OPEN, HEAD COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Breathe Freely! Clear Stuffed-Up, Inflamed Nose and Head and Stop Catarrhal Discharge. Cures Dull Headache.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your stuffed nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold in head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

And such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.

ROBERT MILES A SELF-MADE MAN

LECTURER WHO WILL ENTERTAIN LYCEUM PATRONS TUESDAY EVENING HAS FOLLOWED MANY VOCATIONS

The following tribute is paid to Robert Parker Miles, lecturer-traveler-journalist, who lectures here Tuesday evening, by Benjamin I. Salinger, Supreme Court reporter of Iowa:

"Twenty-five years ago Robert Parker Miles passed the turnstile of Castle Garden, a penniless English lad. His ambition was without limit, because he had all to get. He strove under the lash which impels drowning men to attempt swimming. Yet in his thirties, he had wrested from life a fine academic training. He had been the co-worker of Moody and Booth Tucker, the visitor of Gladstone and Pope Leo XIII—comrade of the leading American literati. As a star writer upon the New York Journal he has startled and moved a million readers into practical, religious thought, and forced New York into humanity toward its working girls and its fallen; and while still a boy preacher he outstripped the wheels of justice and moved the vilest murderers of this century to confession, with burning and pathetic words. A success while in the eye of the nation and while the simple pastor of a village flock—a marked man. A moralist, treating vice with that true sympathy which influences the vicious for good, a Bret Harte in sunny analysis of the good side of bad men and things. A natural dramatist, emotional, vivid, picturesque, he also tempers the sorrows of life with a good wit and consoling, quaint humor. Teachers are as much in demand as ever. But they must be able to impart with moving words the gleamings of a life of achievement. This striking individuality has that title to lecture."
